ATTENTION

ALL FEMALE GOATS AND SHEEP MUST HAVE AN OFFICIAL USDA EAR TAG BEFORE UNLOADING!

A new federal disease control program designed to accelerate the eradication of the fatal brain disease, Scrapie, from the nation's sheep flocks and goat herds began November 19, 2001.

The program will require ear tags to be placed in all sheep and most types of goats by their owners before they are sold by private treaty or transported to a sale, show, or exhibition.

Tags and applicator pliers are available to producers free of charge from the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture (ODA).

What animals must be identified? All sexually intact sheep and goats of any age before being moved for: Sale, Exhibitions, Slaughter, Change of Ownership.

Each of the following qualify as official identification: An official USDA tag. (Obtained from the ODA) Legible official dairy goat registry tattoo. (Only if the animal is accompanied by a registration certificate) For animals not suitable for eartagging, legible flank or tail-web tattoo containing the premise and individual ID.

What is the record keeping requirement? The following records are required to be kept for five years:

Animals that are tagged by owners

Date the animals were tagged, tag numbers applied, breed, age, sex.

Purchased Animals

Animal ID, name, address and phone number whom purchased from. Animal ID, name, address and phone number of person or market animal sold to. Date of acquisition or sale, breed, age, sex.

How are official USDA ear tags obtained? Tag Request Forms can be obtained from the ODA (405) 522-6131. Tagging pliers will be provided at no charge with the first order; and additional pliers can be purchased from ODA.

Do I have to identify all the animals I own now, or only before I move them? You do not have to identify your animals until they are to be exhibited, change ownership, move to a sale, market or slaughter.
